AUTOISTS TOLD TO PARK CARS WITHIN LINES

Safety Director Declares
That City Ordinances
Will Be Enforced

ALL LANES REPAINTED

All Available Space For Cars Is Sought

Motorists were warned, Friday, by Safety Director Karl J. Herrmann to observe newly-painted traffic lines in the business district. City ordinances governing parking of automobiles will be strictly enforced, the official said.

Mr. Herrmann explained that the city traffic regulations provide that "no person shall park a vehicle on any street, where there are diagonal parking lines drawn, painted, stamped or stenciled thereon under the direction of the department of public safety, unless one wheel of said vehicle when parked shall rest no farther than six inches from the curb, and with no part of said vehicle extending on or over any other area than that bounded and within and between two such diagonal lines."

"It is not our desire to be severe in enforcing traffic regulations," Mr. Herrmann said, "but we do expect motorists to park their cars so that every available space can be properly used. We do not expect motorists to park carelessly and make it impossible for others to park because of their act."

Four Ordered in For Traffic Violations

Four motorists were arrested by city police and the sheriff's department Wednesday for traffic violations.

Mrs. Clarabel Follrod, New Holland, and David Peterman, Circleville Route 2, were fined $10 and costs each by Squire B. T. Hedges for failure to observe stop signs. The charges were filed by Miller Fissell, deputy sheriff.

Mrs. Follrod was charged with failure to stop at Routes 104 and 56. She paid her account. Peterman failed to stop at the Westfall road and Route 22. He arranged to pay.

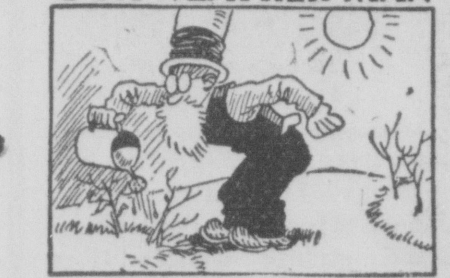

Police arrested two persons for running the traffic light at Main and Mingo streets Wednesday evening. A. R. Conrad, Laurelville, paid $3. Lawrence Rhoads, Fairview avenue, will report at 7:30 p. m. Thursday in police court.

BOY, 15, UNINJURED AS BICYCLE, AUTO COLLIDE

William Havens, 15, Lovers Lane, escaped injury Wednesday evening when his bicycle and the auto of the Rev. O. W. Smith, Ashville, collided at Court and Main streets.

Interest in the project was boosted by antique displays now in Circleville store windows in connection with the Northwest Territory celebration.

DUFFY MAY TAKE PROBE TO OTHER STATE COUNTIES

COLUMBUS, May 5—(UP)—The grand jury investigation of an alleged "shakedown" of state employees' salaries for the Democratic campaign fund was expected today to be extended to several Ohio counties.

Attorney General Herbert Duffy will wait until his grand jury here has made more progress before requesting county prosecutors to look into "shakedown" charges, it was learned.

"This entire matter is very far reaching," Duffy said. "We want to start at the bottom and cover our ground thoroughly. By next week, we may have an idea of what our future procedure will be."

He said grand juries are impaneled in Cuyahoga, Lucas and Summit counties and could investigate the charges. A grand jury in Richland county, called to inquire into the parole system, is in recess but could be recalled.

Prosecutor Dudley Cutcutt of Cincinnati already is investigating alleged campaign assessments against state liquor store employees.

WOMAN, 73, SAYS SON SLEW YOUNG NAVAL OFFICER

WALLA WALLA, Wash., May 5—(UP)—The state today prepared to prosecute a 73-year-old woman and her son, both inmates of state prison, for the slaying 10 years ago of a young naval officer, although the alleged victim's body has not been found.

Prosecutor B. Gray Warner of King county said it was not necessary to find parts of the body of James Eugene Bassett, 35, whom Mrs. Mary Eleanor Smith revealed was slain in September, 1928, by her son, Decasto Earl Mayer, 42. Warner said the corpus delicti could be established by circumstantial evidence.

Mrs. Smith charged her son with three other slayings. She said the thin-lipped, bony-faced man killed Ole Larson, Dorothy LaCasse and a man named Randall several years ago and buried their bodies in a stone quarry in Idaho. The three persons disappeared suddenly after being with Mayer.

Mrs. Smith, broken after eight years in the penitentiary on a grand larceny conviction, told full details of the gruesome slaying to Warden J. M. McCauley. She said her bald-headed son struck Bassett twice on the head with a hammer in a house near Seattle, then dissected his body in a bathtub. During this operation, she said she gave him egg-nog to "keep up his strength."

COUNCIL RETAINS HOPES FOR NEW JAIL STRUCTURE

Councilmen still have hopes they may be able to obtain a new municipal jail with federal aid.

The matter was discussed briefly Wednesday evening during a recess session. They believe that if additional funds are provided by the government for a public works program the jail might be considered.

To date no definite plans or estimates have been prepared. It is believed a two-story addition at the rear of the city building for a jail, garage and health offices would cost about $25,000.

Efforts are being made by Harold Claypool, congressman, of Chillicothe, to obtain federal approval of a jail project.

HALF OF PLANT CREW WORKING A T CHEVROLET

BAY CITY, Mich., May 5—(UP)—The Chevrolet parts plant here, which has been strike-bound for two days, re-opened this morning with a skeleton crew amid union resentment and threats of a power shut-down.

Approximately half of the normal crew of 1,100 men were at work. Local United Automobile Workers union leaders, dissatisfied with an agreement reached in Detroit yesterday, ordered their men not to go back to work.

Reuben Peters, president of the U. A. W. Bay City local, said that the approximately 500 men who reopened the plant were not members of the union. Peters charged that reopening of the plant was a "breach of faith" on the part of Chevrolet.

Police reported that nearly a hundred men were picketing the plant. Most of them, police believed, were union workers who refused to go back to their jobs.

Police heard threats of an attempt to seize control of a power sub-station at the rear of the Chevrolet plant. A special detail of officers was sent to guard the sub-station.

WORLD EVENTS NOTABLE

Spanish Loyalists Turn;

BY UNITED PRESS

Fascist Premier Benito Mussolini today showed Adolf Hitler more than 200 reasons—all of them ships of war—why Italy is a valuable neighbor and friend.

The Italian naval display, described as the greatest since the World War, was staged for Hitler in the Bay of Naples as one of Mussolini's important moves during a week of festivities for the visiting Nazi leader.

Seeking to maintain his powerful position as a balance between Germany in eastern Europe and the British-French combination in the West, Mussolini was reported to have backed away from concrete action to strengthen his partnership with Hitler.

But if the Fascist leader was cool to Hitler's desire for a stronger dictatorial front, his attitude did not appear to have jeopardized continuation of the Rome-Berlin axis or the Nazi program of expansion in central Europe, where Czechoslovakia is facing a show-down with Germany. The chief contribution which observers expect Mussolini to make in the current realignment of European strength will be to join the efforts of Britain and France to prevent the Nazi expansion from causing war.

NINE STARTERS REMAINING FOR KENTUCKY RACE

Owner Maxwell Howard Says
Famous Colt Too Ill

FIGHTING FOX FAVORED

First Signs Seek Tuesday
In Loss To The Chief

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 5—(UP)—Stagehand, Winter-book favorite to win the Kentucky Derby, was withdrawn from the race today because of sickness, Owner Maxwell Howard announced.

Thousands of dollars had been bet on the Stagecraft colt to win the derby after his sensational triumphs in the derby and handicaps at Santa Anita.

The first signs of illness were shown Tuesday when Stagehand finished third behind his stablemate, The Chief, and Lawrin in the one-mile derby trial.

Replaced by Fox

Stagehand had been coupled with The Chief, the 3-1 favorite entry, until the former's poor showing in the trial. Fighting Fox, William Woodward's son of Sir Galahad III, was made a 2-1 choice immediately on withdrawal of Stagehand.

The withdrawal left only nine probable starters, the smallest field since Exterminator won the three-year-old classic from seven others in 1918.

Those remaining now are Fighting Fox, The Chief, Menow, Bull Lea, Dauber, Can't Wait, Lawrin, Co-Sport and Elotot.

The enforced withdrawal of the Howard favorite was the worst disappointment suffered by any Kentucky Derby in the long history of the race. Stagehand opened at 5-1 favorite in the Winter book and held that position until Fighting Fox won the Wood Memorial stakes last Saturday, and they were made joint favorites at 3-1.

Peak at Santa Anita

Stagehand started 15 times during his short career, winning seven, running second twice and third on three other occasions. He was out of the money five times. He reached the peak of his career when he defeated the 1937 handicap champion Seabiscuit by a nose in the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap. His earnings to date are $137,310.

NINE STARTERS REMAINING FOR KENTUCKY RACE

Owner Maxwell Howard Says Famous Colt Too Ill To Participate

FIGHTING FOX FAVORED

First Signs Seek Tuesday In Loss To The Chief

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 5—(UP)—Stagehand, Winter-book favorite to win the Kentucky Derby, was withdrawn from the race today because of sickness, Owner Maxwell Howard announced.

Thousands of dollars had been bet on the Stagecraft colt to win the derby after his sensational triumphs in the derby and handicap at Santa Anita.

The first signs of illness were shown Tuesday when Stagehand finished third behind his stablemate, The Chief, and Lawrin in the one-mile derby trial.

Replaced by Fox

Stagehand had been coupled with The Chief, the 3-1 favorite entry, until the former's poor showing in the trial. Fighting Fox, William Woodward's son of Sir Galahad III, was made a 2-1 choice immediately on withdrawal of Stagehand.

The withdrawal left only nine probable starters, the smallest field since Exterminator won the three-year-old classic from seven others in 1918.

Those remaining now are Fighting Fox, The Chief, Menow, Bull Lea, Dauber, Can't Wait, Lawrin, Co-Sport and Eloto.

The enforced withdrawal of the Howard favorite was the worst disappointment suffered by any Kentucky Derby in the long history of the race. Stagehand opened at 5-1 favorite in the Winter book and held that position until Fighting Fox won the Wood Memorial stakes last Saturday, and they were made joint favorites at 3-1.

Peak at Santa Anita

Stagehand started 15 times during his short career, winning seven, running second twice and third on three other occasions. He was out of the money five times. He reached the peak of his career when he defeated the 1937 handicap champion Seabiscuit by a nose in the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap. His earnings to date are $137,310.

When the locals arrived Chief Ernie had the fire under control by the aid of a small extinguisher taken from his auto.

FARMERS BEGIN NEW CROP YEAR WITH HANDICAP

Largest Prospective July 1 Carryover In Many Years Appears Probable

WHEAT IS FAVORABLE

Mild Winter, Early Spring Pasture Aid Feed

COLUMBUS, May 5.—Ohio farmers, along with those in other grain-producing states, are going into the 1938 crop season under the handicap of the largest prospective July 1 carryover of feed grains of any year on record, according to Guy W. Miller, rural economics department, Ohio State university.

High grain production in 1938, mild temperatures during the winter which permitted savings on feed, and early spring pasture all contributed to the overflowing granaries. Combined stocks of corn and oats on farms April 1, 1938, were estimated at more than eight million tons above the average stocks over a period of 10 years.

Wheat statistics are no more favorable from the farmers' standpoint, as far as prospective prices are concerned. April 1 reports indicate a winter wheat crop of 726 million bushels—41 million bushels above the 10-year average. Ohio farmers and those in the rest of the United States are holding much more than average reserves from last year's crop. Spring wheat may bring the total crop to be marketed to a total of one million bushels.

Taking the years 1923-25 as a normal period of production, agriculture is producing about 15 percent above normal and industry is producing about 21 percent below normal. Previous experience that prices for farm products are going to be in a disadvantageous position as compared with prices for manufactured goods.

Mr. Miller says, "During the depression following the war, as well as the one beginning in 1929, industry was able to maintain a relatively stable price level by drastically reducing its production. Agriculture continued production at a relatively level volume year after year and had to take very low prices for its products during the depression years. Flexible prices for farm products and more rigid prices for the things farmers buy constitute one of the major farm problems."

Seven Dead Babies Born To Cuban Farm Woman

By GUSTAVE CROMBET

CAUTO EMBARCADERO, Cuba, April 5.—(UP)—Seven dead babies were born to Mrs. Rafaela Casanova Corrias on a lonely farm 10 miles from here Sunday and are buried in a simple grave which Juan Corrias, the father, dug in the front yard before the thatched farm house.

A midwife, Candelaria Arauz, attended the 34-year-old mother in her 10-hour ordeal as eight living children of the family, the youngest a boy of eight months, played or slept about the house.

News of the birth became known when the father went to Bayamo, 16 miles away, yesterday to get a doctor because his wife was ill.

With the speed that attends rumor, the story spread from end to end of Cuba and it was reported persistently that the babies were alive.

Dr. Ramos Chamdeau, director of Bayamo hospital, equipped an ambulance with an incubator and all essentials and awaited daylight to start over the narrow, almost impassable road into the country to attend the mother.

Col. Batista Acts
Col. Fugencio Batista, chief of army staff and strong man of Cuba, telephoned orders personally to army commanders throughout the area to get to the scene by any means possible and take the babies, if they lived, to the baby hospital at Santiago, the provincial capital here at the eastern end of the island.

Batista was informed by authorities of the provincial military hospital that according to their reports the babies lived, and this increased the national excitement.

Judicial authorities, municipal authorities and telegraph authorities, impressed by the persistent reports, gave assurance that the babies were alive and thriving. It proved impossible for organized ambulance parties to get over the roads before daylight today. However, they managed with considerable difficulty to reach the Corrias farm house at 1:30 o'clock this morning.

I found Senora Corrias, a strong, healthy woman of 34, apparently recovered from the births, which were premature.

"They started at 7 o'clock Sunday morning," she told me, "and the last one, the only boy, came at 5 o'clock in the afternoon. I did not give much importance to it because the babies were all dead." "I went to Bayamo because my wife was not feeling well and I wanted a doctor," the 45-year-old husband told me. "I never told anyone that the babies were alive."

In Money Post?

HAS President Roosevelt decided on the appointment of Representative Lindsay C. Warren of North Carolina to the vacant position of comptroller general of the U. S. with its 15-year term? Such is the report from Washington. Warren, an ardent New Dealer, is chairman of the house committee on accounts and has served frequently as an assistant administrative leader in the house. The position has been vacant since John R. McCarl ended his 15-year term last June.

—only that they had been born.

Contract Offered
I handed Corrias a telegram which post officials at Bayamo had asked me to deliver to him, offering him a contract for news reel rights for himself, his wife and their babies.

"I am only sorry it is not all true," he said after he had read it.

STATE OF CITY FUNDS OUTLINED BY COUNCILMEN

Collections at Berger hospital for April totaled $1,655.50, Safety Director Karl Hermann reported Wednesday night to city council.

Mayor W. B. Cady reported collections of $308.50, including fines of $78, licenses $3, fees $43.50 and bonds $184.

Councilman Ben Gordon, chairman of the finance committee, said two bills amounting to approximately $2,000 have been filed with Miss Lillian Young, city auditor, to be paid out of the next tax distribution. He said one bill of about $1,600 was for the industrial commission and the other, amounting to about $430, was for state examiners. In addition, the city will have a bill of about $500 on the special election.

Amounts in the various city funds were reported as follows: general $829.25, library $2,065.11, auto street repair $4,865.60, gasoline tax $561.50, Berger hospital $1,203.64, and disposal plant $58,941.25.

Many U. S. prisons now have monthly newspapers or magazines, written and published by inmates.

CIRCLEVILLE HAS ORDINANCE FOR CAR OPERATION

Circleville has an ordinance against reckless driving, Carl C. Leist, solicitor, told councilmen Wednesday evening.

Mayor W. B. Cady recently informed council that cases of reckless driving were being handled under state laws. He suggested that a city ordinance so funds obtained from the cases would be retained by the city.

Mr. Leist said the ordinance was not in the book of ordinances used by the mayor and the only copy was in the files of Clerk Fred Nicholas. Mr. Leist said a copy would be made and filed with the mayor.

Mr. Leist was instructed to check up on regulations concerning burning trash in the city limits. The fire department has been called on four fires within the last two weeks blamed on burning trash.

Fire Chief Talmer Wise said he believed the city had an ordinance prohibiting the burning of trash within 30 feet of a building. Councilman William Reid recommended that legislation be passed prohibiting the burning of trash in the downtown district.

During 1917 and 1918 Germany manufactured submarines at the rate of one every 90 hours.

CIRCLEVILLE HAS ORDINANCE FOR CAR OPERATION

Circleville has an ordinance against reckless driving, Carl C. Leist, solicitor, told councilmen Wednesday evening.

Mayor W. B. Cady recently informed council that cases of reckless driving were being handled under state laws. He suggested that a city ordinance so funds obtained from the cases would be retained by the city.

Mr. Leist said the ordinance was not in the book of ordinances used by the mayor and the only copy was in the files of Clerk Fred Nicholas. Mr. Leist said a copy would be made and filed with the mayor.

Mr. Leist was instructed to check up on regulations concerning burning trash in the city limits. The fire department has been called on four fires within the last two weeks blamed on burning trash.

Fire Chief Talmer Wise said he believed the city had an ordinance prohibiting the burning of trash within 30 feet of a building. Councilman William Reid recommended that legislation be passed prohibiting the burning of trash in the downtown district.

During 1917 and 1918 Germany manufactured submarines at the rate of one every 90 hours.

CLEVELAND (UP)—Five officials of the Ohio Social Security Board are women, it was disclosed at a meeting of field office managers from 35 cities.

The five women officials hold the following positions: regional administrative assistant, regional attorney, Cleveland field office manager, head of the Lorain, O., office and manager of the Ashtabula, O., office.

The antelope, once almost extinct in the United States, now numbers more than 60,000.

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA

"When G-Men Step In"... you can expect plenty of excitement... and that's exactly what happens in the Columbia picture of that title that opened at the Cliftona Theatre last night on a double feature program with "She's Got Everything." Ripping the lid from the latest activities of racketeers, it shows the federal men cracking down on the lawless who operate "within the law." For those who like entertainment of the fast-action, thrill variety, here's your meat?

Briefly, it tells of Garth (Don Terry), who owns a printing establishment and poses as a business research expert. Actually, he supervises several white-collar rackets, operating by means of high-pressure telephone soliciting.

AT THE GRAND

It's fifteen or twenty days to North China, from Shanghai, by boat or railroad.

But it was only half an hour to North China from the Warner Bros. studio, a few weeks ago.

For a scene in "West of Shanghai" at the Grand, Friday, Art Director Max Parker built a complete Chinese city on the Warner ranch near Calabasas. The set, which represented a small town and missionary station in North-China, covered 10 acres and took three weeks to construct.

The set didn't look like much from the road, for it faced the hills. It wouldn't do, in a picture about China, to have the cameras pick up gas stations, hot dog stands and the pet cemetery on Ventura Boulevard.

But from the other side it looked like home to the hundreds of Chinese extras working in the film.

Henry Ward Beecher, famous abolitionist minister, held a slave auction in New York City June 1, 1856, to show the city dwellers what a "cruel, sordid thing" the auctions were.

NEW HOLLAND

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hurt of Clarksburg spent Friday with Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hurt and children.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wright and daughter Evelyn entertained to a Sunday dinner Mr. and Mrs. Harlyn Hoppes and son Eddie of South Charleston and Harry Huchison of Cisco.

Dr. and Mrs. L. M. Tarbill and daughter Peggy Lou and son Dean were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Cary Tarbill of Mt. Sterling.

Mrs. Nellie Leasure and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Vine and daughters from Columbus were Sunday afternoon callers with Mrs. Laura Bishop and son Charlie.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dennis and family and Roy Dennis of Atlanta were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Morris and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Coy of Lancaster are announcing the birth of a daughter, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Vincent celebrated their fortieth wedding anniversary Sunday. Those to enjoy the day with the honored couple were: Mr. and Mrs. Harry Vincent and son of Derby, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Vincent of Dayton, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Vincent and children of Bloomingburg, Mr. and Mrs. Richards Vincent and family of Columbus, Mr. and Mrs.

Hugh Vincent and children of Clarksburg, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Miller and son, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Kirk, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Vincent, Carlos, Junior and Louise Vincent and Avonelle and Dale Vincent.

John Coy and son Robert were Sunday visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Coy and family.

Mrs. Maud Allen and daughter Ina of Chillicothe were Friday and Saturday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Wright.

Watson Swearingner of Yellow Springs died Friday at the home Mrs. Frederic Volz.

Thursday-Friday-Saturday—105 W. Main St.

GIVE THE GOOD EGG A BREAK

All Gallaher Drug Stores are cooperating with the National Association of Chain Drug Stores of America in a concentration sale of eggs at the Soda Fountain.

In the Spring of the year we should all be reminded to eat more eggs, as during the month of April and May eggs are more abundant than any other month.

The serving of two eggs per person per day should be made almost a universal rule. Two eggs have an approximate food value of 1/4 pound of meat.

We are cooperating by serving egg omelettes, egg sandwiches, egg drinks and many salads using eggs.

ment a long-shot chance of victory, the Loyalists claimed important advances in the Teruel area when they said 1,000 Moors had been wiped out and a Nationalist offensive shattered.

CHINA—Chinese troops, led by the famous "big sword," opened an offensive against Tangcheng, important link in the Japanese lines on the central front, and reportedly isolated the city. The Chinese claimed they had not only pushed back the Japanese lines in southern Shantung province by 12 miles but—far more important—had smashed the invaders' supply lines to prevent reinforcements from coming up. It was such guerrilla warfare recently that cut the support from Japan's extended front lines in central China and led to her first major military disaster.

FRANCE—The struggle to strengthen France's economic position advanced with announcement by Finance Minister Paul Marchandeau that the franc would be held at a maximum rate of 179 to the pound sterling or 2.79 cents for the present. The United States and Britain approved the action in connection with the three power monetary agreement.

Arms Embargo Hit

UNITED STATES—Agitation for repeal of the embargo on arms sales to Spain continued in connection with a resolution by Sen. Gerald P. Nye, R., N. D. The state department was expected to give its position after President Roosevelt's return to Washington.

ROUMANIA—The council of the little entente—Rumania, Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia—conferred at Sinaia on the prospects of Nazi expansion in central Europe and particularly on aiding the Czechs if Germany should attack them. It was indicated that they would adopt a conciliatory policy in an effort to settle minority problems but stand firm against territorial changes.

CZECHOSLOVAKIA—Nazis painted swastikas on the monument of the late Thomas Masaryk, the "father" of Czechoslovakia, at Mahrtsch-Schönberg, near the German border.

CUBA—Col. Fulgencio Batista, strong man of Cuba, suspended his three-year economic and political program and announced his support for stabilization of "democratic institutions." He insisted that all factions join in action for constituent assembly elections.

LEONARD HURLS

GREAT CONTEST

AGAINST INDIANS

WASHINGTON, May 5—(UP)—The big bats that enabled the Cleveland Indians to hammer their way into the American league lead had been silenced for the first time today.

Emil (Dutch) Leonard, a hurler who was waived out of the National league, turned the trick here yesterday when he limited the Indians to six hits as the Washington Senators took a spectacular 1 to 0 decision in 13 innings.

Leonard, the master of a baffling knuckle ball, struck out five Tribe batters and did not issue a base on balls.

Bob Feller, seeking his fourth consecutive triumph, and rookie Bill Zuber shared the pitching burden for the Indians. Feller hurled 10 innings and Zuber the final three.

During his stretch in the box Feller permitted the Senators only three hits, all of them singles.

TOLEDO BECOMES THREAT

IN ASSOCIATION CHASE

COLUMBUS, May 5—(UP)—A new threat to first division clubs in the American Association had developed today after the Toledo Mudhens appeared to have hit their stride.

Toledo took a 16 to 8 decision from Milwaukee yesterday in the only Association game played and climbed to within one game of third place in the standing.

The Mudhens had one big inning, the eighth, that enabled them to clinch the triumph. In that round Toledo scored 12 times.

Toledo pounded three Milwaukee hurlers for 20 hits. Every man in the Mudhen lineup secured at least one safety.

Fred Marberry, in the box for Toledo, was touched for 13 hits but breezed to the victory behind the Mudhens' murderous attack.

Rain caused postponement of the other three games.

McGinnis and her guest Mrs. John Wicht of Columbus, and Misses Josephine Brundige and Mildred Holderman. At the close of the playing and the scores were counted it was found that Mrs. Robert Brundige held high score and was awarded the trophy. Mrs. Smart was presented the guest prize.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Curtiss moved recently, from Chillicothe to the farm vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Kempton, who moved to a farm near Williamsport.

Evans and daughter Rose Helen attended the Federal Workers' Union reception at the Veterans' hospital recreation hall at Camp Sherman on Thursday evening for Dr. and Mrs. H. H. Botts, the new manager of the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jones of Columbus were the week-end guests of Mrs. Jones' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Hettlinger.

Mrs. Herman Williams was called to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Dumm on Friday on account of the serious illness of Mrs. Dumm, who suffered a heart attack on Thursday.

WASHINGTON, May 5—(UP)—Highest estimates of support for a petition to force house consideration of the wages and hours bill today allowed only an outside chance today for its success.

Signatures of seven Progressives and five Farmer Laborites was assured. But failure of 45 northern and western Democrats to sign would defeat the effort to free the bill from the rules committee.

The bill is given an excellent chance for passage if the petition, which Chairman Mary Norton, D., N. J., of the house labor committee, will file tomorrow, succeeds in getting the required 218 names. But it was believed, even among the bill's supporters that it would be killed for this congress in the senate.

The measure almost certainly would be filibustered to death if a conference report retained the house bill provisions for a universal 40-cent minimum wage and 40-hour maximum work week in three years, without a southern wage differential.

CHINA—Chinese troops, led by the famous "big sword," opened an offensive against Tangcheng, important link in the Japanese lines on the central front, and reportedly isolated the city. It was such guerrilla warfare recently that cut the support from Japan's extended front lines in central China and led to her first major military disaster.

BROWN OFFERS CYCLE USE AS TRAFFIC CHECK

James E. Brown, Circleville township, presented a proposition to council Wednesday evening to perform the duties of a motorcycle patrolman in the city.

Mr. Brown sent a letter to council notifying members he was willing to equip a motorcycle according to specifications used by the state patrol and would patrol the streets under police requirements. His compensation would be from costs in the cases of traffic violators.

Council referred the proposition to the safety committee and Karl Herrmann, safety director, for consideration.

"One Who Loves His Fellowmen"

The writer of this brief tribute, became a citizen and newspaper publisher of Circleville in the late Summer of 1916, since which time a World War has been ended and 22 years have lapsed into a historical and irrefragable past.

For more than half of that time, he was the business and social neighbor of a citizen just across Main street, Circleville, in the person of George Grand-Girard, against whom, in all this score of years, he does not recall a single criticism of the man either in his business dealings or in his contact as a neighbor and progressive citizen.

On the other hand, during all these years of personal relationship, he has, also, yet to hear from the lips of Mr. Girard, a criticism of either a neighbor or a citizen of his home town.

In other words, George Girard-Girard, has come to be known as one "who loves his fellowmen" and who, in return, is honored and loved by all who know him best.

A whole volume might be written, concerning the beneficent influence of the single and exemplary life of the guest of honor whom we have delighted to memorialize in Circleville, this present week. It must have been just such a man whom Leigh Hunt, the poet, had in mind when he wrote, in fabulous and oriental fashion, the simple but impressive tale of "About Ben Adhem." And "least we forget," I offer no apology for reproducing herewith, the entire poem of only 18 lines, the central thought and heart of which, is the uncontaminated altruism that must save this muddled-up old world, if saved it can be, from wholly undesirable experimentation of the partisan and purely selfish purpose of designing politicians.

And now, for one moment, only, allow me to refresh the memory of my readers with the story of "About Ben Adhem", which, translated into modern nomenclature, might read, "The Story of the Unselfish GIRARDS of Mankind". About Ben Adhem, may his tribe increase,

Awoke one night from a dream of peace
And saw within the moonlight in his room,
Making it rich and like a lily in bloom,
An angel writing in a book of gold.

Exceeding peace had made Ben Adhem bold;
And to the presence in the room, he said:

"What writest thou?" The vision

raised its head,
And, with a look of sweet accord,
Answered, "The names of those who love the Lord."

"And is mine one?" said Abou.
"Nay, not so,"
Replied the angel. Abou spoke more low,
But cheerily still; and said, "I pray thee, then,
Write me as one who loves his fellow-men."

The angel wrote and vanished.
The next night
It came again and with a great wakening light.
Showed all the names whom love of God had blessed
And, Lo! Ben Adhem's name, led all the rest.

Don't Keep on Having Constipation!

If constipation's got you down—so you feel heavy, tired and dopey—it's time you did something about it. And something more than taking a physic! You should get at the cause of the trouble.

If you eat only the things most people do, the chances are that very simple fact causes your constipation—you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean heavy food. It means a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

If this is your trouble, eat crisp crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast every day and drink plenty of water. All-Bran is not only rich in "bulk"—it also contains the natural intestinal tonic, vitamin B.

BROWN OFFERS CYCLE USE AS TRAFFIC CHECK

James E. Brown, Circleville township, presented a proposition to council Wednesday evening to perform the duties of a motorcycle patrolman in the city.

Mr. Brown sent a letter to council notifying members he was willing to equip a motorcycle according to specifications used by the state patrol and would patrol the streets under police requirements. His compensation would be from costs in the cases of traffic violators. Council referred the proposition to the safety committee and Karl Herrmann, safety director, for consideration.

VOICE ...of the... PEOPLE

"One Who Loves His Fellowmen"
The writer of this brief tribute, became a citizen and newspaper publisher of Circleville in the late Summer of 1916, since which time a World War has been ended and 22 years have lapsed into a historical and irretrievable past.

For more than half of that time, he was the business and social neighbor of a citizen just across Main street, Circleville, in the person of George Grand-Girard, against whom, in all this score of years, he does not recall a single criticism of the man either in his business dealings or in his contact as a neighbor and progressive citizen.

On the other hand, during all these years of personal relationship, he has, also, yet to hear from the lips of Mr. Girard, a criticism of either a neighbor or a citizen of his home town.

In other words, George Girard-Girard, has come to be known as one "who loves his fellowmen" and who, in return, is honored and loved by all who know him best.

A whole volume might be written, concerning the beneficent influence of the single and exemplary life of the guest of honor whom we have delighted to memorialize in Circleville, this present week. It must have been just such a man whom Leigh Hunt, the poet, had in mind when he wrote, in fabulous and oriental fashion, the simple but impressive tale of "Abou Ben Adhem."

And "lest we forget," I offer no apology for reproducing herewith, the entire poem of only 18 lines, the central thought and heart of which, is the uncontaminated altruism that must save this muddled-up old world, if saved it can be, from wholly undesirable experimentation of the partisan and purely selfish purpose of designing politicians.

And now, for one moment, only, allow me to refresh the memory of my readers with the story of "Abou Ben Adhem," which, translated into modern nomenclature, might read, "The Story of the Unselfish GIRARDS of Mankind". Abou Ben Adhem, may his tribe increase.

Awoke one night from a dream of peace
And saw within the moonlight in his room,
Making it rich and like a lily in bloom,
An angel writing in a book of gold.

Exceeding peace had made Ben Adhem bold;
And to the presence in the room, he said:
"What writest thou?" The vision

raised its head,
And, with a look of sweet accord,
Answered, "The names of those who love the Lord."

"And is mine one?" said Abou.
"Nay, not so,"
Replied the angel. Abou spoke more low,
But cheerily still; and said, "I pray thee, then,
Write me as one who loves his fellow-men."

The angel wrote and vanished.
The next night
It came again with a great wakening light.
Showed all the names whom love of God had blessed
And, Lo! Ben Adhem's name, led all the rest.

Don't Keep on Having Constipation!

If constipation's got you down—so you feel heavy, tired and dopey—it's time you did something about it. And something more than taking a physic! You should get at the cause of the trouble. If you eat only the things most people do, the chances are that a very simple fact causes your constipation—you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean heavy food. It means a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

If this is your trouble, eat crisp crunchy Kellogg's All-Brain for breakfast every day and drink plenty of water. All-Brain is not only rich in "bulk"—it also contains the natural intestinal tonic, vitamin B.

REALISM

THE first requirement for judging public problems is a sense of reality. Too many of our disputants are living in a dream-world.

This observation applies to the extremists of both sides—conservatives and radicals. Both fail to look on this present-day world and recognize it for what it is.

Even many liberals, who profess to follow the middle path in public policies and social principles, are in a daze from books they have read and speeches they have listened to. Habitual talkers and public speakers become hypnotized by their own voices. The oftener they say a thing, the more they believe it, although it may never have existed except in their own imaginations.

The only way by which we can get anywhere, in this confused and baffling time, is to start freshly every morning, trying to see life as it is on that day—the business and political and social facts next door and in the next block and down town and around the state, around the country, around the world. Half of it, perhaps, can be got by direct contact with many people. The other half can be got from newspapers, radio, magazines and books.

All of the facts observed and heard are to be interpreted in terms of human nature, of people like ourselves trying to get along together and make a living and improve their lot in the hardest and most mixed-up era that any of us have ever seen.

Down with propaganda, down with prejudice! Why not suspend even cherished beliefs and take a fresh slant on things? Be objective and dispassionate—try to let your eye see and your judgment work as if these were other people's problems instead of yours. And always be human. Nothing else counts much.

RUSSIAN CELEBRATION

MAY 1 was, as usual, a big day in Moscow. A million workers paraded in the Red Square, saluted by Boss Stalin. There were notable features in the celebration.

One was the open contempt shown for England, which has been regarded as an informal ally of Russia against the Fascist countries. There were banners showing the British Lion with its tail tied to a cannon barrel representing the "Rome-Berlin axis." Russia is clearly annoyed by the new British friendship with Italy.

There was also a May Day manifesto from the Communist Internationale blaming Britain for the present plight of China, loyalist Spain, Austria and Czechoslovakia. There is an unpleasant amount of truth

FDR REJECTED RICHBERG PLAN

WASHINGTON — When the President started writing his monopoly message to Congress last week he had before him two important and diametrically opposite proposals.

One was a 10,000-word preliminary draft of a message by Solicitor General Bob Jackson, author of previous trust-busting speeches. The other was a long letter from Don Richberg, once NRA executive, now big-shot lawyer, which proposed the same monopoly controls supposed to exist under NRA, namely self-government of business.

Richberg expected to be called to the White House to help write the monopoly message, but the summons never came. Instead the President sent for Jackson and his chief, Attorney General Cummings, showed both of them the Richberg letter.

Jackson read it and remarked drily: "The same old stuff."

Cummings differed. "Sounds very good to me," he said.

It doesn't to me," replied the President. "I think it is vague and unconvincing."

Cummings withdrew shortly afterward, leaving the President to work entirely with Jackson in whipping the monopoly message into final form.

MOMENTOUS DECISION

This conference was even more significant than appears on the surface. It represented a long period of hemming and hawing between the President and his advisers on both sides of the road, therefore, is interpreted by his inner council to mean that he will follow the road without deviation in the future.

Hitherto Roosevelt has played a policy which might be described as "Balancing Prejudices." He dealt out a hand in favor of his left-wing group, then turned around and tossed a few cards in the direction of the right-wingers.

It was a policy of aiming a "little left of center" but trying to keep both sides pacified.

Regarding his monopoly message, Roosevelt was torn between these two sides far more than anyone, except those on the inside, realized. The message was supposed to come out immediately after his return from Warm Springs, when Bob Jackson rode north on the train with him. But because of the vehement tug-of-war, it was delayed.

On one side were the "Go-Slowers"—Secretaries Hull, Wallace, Attorney General Cummings, RFChairman Jesse Jones, and Don Richberg.

On the other side were the "Hit-Harders"—Secretary Ickes, SEChairman Bill Douglas, Harry Hopkins, Bob Jackson, and Brain Trusters Henderson, Cohen and Corcoran.

in that. Britain's support of democracy lately is half-hearted. Yet it is hard to think of Stalin's Russia, with its dictatorship and treason trials and espionage, as a real friend of democracy.

Another feature was the military demonstration. A great display of modern bombing planes, big tanks by the hundred, and other fighting equipment, suggested that Russia is ready for any foe in spite of her internal troubles. It was a plain warning to Hitler not to start anything on the Russian front.

One More Wedding

CHAPTER 46

GARRY suddenly felt his senses awakening. The unreal aspect vanished. He could not escape through the high and narrow barred windows. If he left, he would have to fight his way out and he did not have a gun. The police might, or might not, pick up the trail.

Maybe, with only two of the group left on guard—he could distinguish the rumble of two voices only—he could give them the bum's rush. Better to charge two than four. But maybe it would be wiser to see what news the others brought back.

The baby began to cry again. Apparently it had been doped these last few hours. Thank fortune, the infant was alive. The gang might keep their promise in this case.

He heard the car return, a long time later, then the jubilant sound of voices in the next room. The family had complied. The men had their money.

"What about the kid?" someone asked. "Going to return him now?"

"Not on your grandmother's tinselt! They'll be waiting for us, three deep in those woods." The ringleader was giving some unexpected information.

"And the newspaper guy?" "Wait till we get his money. That is, if we don't have to beat it tonight. I brought Tom and Sawdust back. They're watching from the hideaway down the road. If anything dangerous comes up, they'll switch off the lights and we'll beat it in the dark."

"We'll kill the guy first?" another voice asked.

"Give him a shot or two if there's time," another man said hopefully.

The leader didn't approve. "Nix on that. They'd hear the shots. We'll take the guy along and dump him in the river. But say, why not make him work instead of sitting in there, eating off the food? I could do with a pot of coffee."

These men were pretty sure that his time was approaching. Garry knew, or they would not be willing to let him see them, face to face. He used to make coffee on hikes, back in college days, so he collected the measurements and put the pot over the fire. The men had been drinking. Bottles stood around. They were not drunk, though. The baby was asleep now, in a corner of the room.

The men had the room. Now and then they began to count it. "Good many tens," one of them said. "Fives and ones would make a thicker package."

A sudden, tense silence seized the group. The men began to count steadily. Half way through the pile, they came to a note. The leader swore as he put it down. "They'll leave the baby."

"Sure," a confederate put in. "Didn't I tell you guys they think we'd trust us? They think we'll get the 50 grand and want some more. It's on the level, boys. They know we can kill the brat if the money isn't there. We'd better play ball with them."

Garry served the coffee, returned to his room, tried to read a book. Two of the men went away. He was left with the other two. He felt in his pockets, wondering if he had anything that might help him. Again the sense of unreality stole over him.

He laughed grimly at a small envelope in his unused trousers' watch pocket—overlooked when the men had searched him. A friend of his, a physician, had given him some sleeping powders when he had remarked once that he wasn't sleeping. He had taken them along only to please the man. All this time they had reposed in Garry's tiny pocket. His mind began to function swiftly. There were half a dozen of them and one was enough to put a man to sleep after a reasonable time. Well, then, three should do some pretty fast work.

He came to the door of the room.

He swore at the whiskey he had been drinking earlier in the evening. His eyes closed again. The other man put his head down on the table.

Now! Garry counted to 10, slowly, before he started to get the keys. The man moved and mumbled something, but did not waken. It was only a second's work to unlock the door. Then he seized the sleeping child and the blanket in which it was wrapped, switched off the light, and stepped out of the door. He began to run, cautiously, though. Any moment he might meet the men who were returning.

Every time a night bird called or an animal ran across the road he waited. He had been walking for a couple of hours when he sighted the river. The lights on the ferry station were out. He gave a great breath of relief as he plunged down the hill. He was not afraid. He wondered if he were some sort of nut! The only downright fear he had had was the moment when he had suggested that his captors join him in a toast.

He heard the sound of a car and lay down in the brush. The infant began to cry. He pulled the blanket over its head. The sound was muffled but it still came. It was probable that the car would be making enough noise to drown it.

Barbara, meantime, had received Natalie's answer: "Garry still unfound."

Barbara's answer followed: "Returning immediately Queen Mary."

That night, all the way from New York, Natalie telephoned to Barbara. And Barbara, hearing the voice she knew so well, reflected that Natalie, at least, had money to use as she pleased.

"Barbara darling!" the voice sang its way under the ocean.

"Oh, Natalie!" That was a sob. "Cheer up, Babbs. It's going to be all right. The police have a clue and they plan to rush it through. But why are you sailing so soon?"

Barbara was through with pretenses. "Because I want to be near Garry," she answered proudly.

"But Ray?"

"No, no Natalie, I'm not engaged to him now. I wrote him yesterday. It was all a mistake. You see, I love Garry!"

"You're sure, Barbara? Sure it isn't this danger he's in?"

"Oh, Natalie, of course I'm sure."

"Then they've got to find him so he'll know. They will find him! I know he thought you didn't care that day you sailed. You were rather aloof, after he had gone down to your apartment the night before, called me to locate you, and—"

The metallic tones of the operator were announcing the time was up. Barbara realized that she couldn't expect to carry on a conversation with someone 3,000 miles across the sea. But the hope that had been growing since Vanda had said that it was she, Barbara, whom Garry loved, grew stronger. At the same time the fear that Garry would never know that she still cared, would always care, became more frightening.

She dialed the press offices just before she started for the boat train the next day. "Oh, yes, Miss Kingsley," a man's kindly voice said. "Can you stand a little bad news?"

No Need for Expensive Glasses

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

A WOMAN writes me to ask whether inexpensive glasses, costing about a dollar, will harm her and her husband's eyes. They are both about 48 years old. She says that she feels she cannot afford expensive glasses and bought these at a department store.

This is a very interesting and important question. It is unfortunate that the economic situation has to enter into it, but since it does I think a sensible reply is that in people whose eyes are becoming blurred on account of age, no harm will come from the use of the inexpensive glasses. The eye disability of old age is entirely different from that of younger people and does not necessarily need such careful examination and fitting.

Presbyopia, or hardening of the lens in middle age, results in inability to do close reading or close work of any kind. It is simply due to the fact that the lens of the eye no longer is elastic and cannot be made to focus on near objects. As time goes on, stronger and stronger glasses are needed, but there is no reason why these glasses need cost a great deal of money and, in fact, I am quite convinced that any glasses which allow a person in this condition to read and do close work, will do no harm. An indication of this is the fact that old people who have mislaid their glasses, often borrow those of others of about the same age and even after using them for an hour or two, do not have a headache or evidence of eye strain.

Expensive Frames Unnecessary There is certainly no reason why expensive frames need be used for these glasses because they usually have to be discarded within a year or more, until the eyes finally get set at about the age of 55.

In view of the economic problem involved here, I really believe in every community some charitable person or organization should offer to collect the old spectacle frames and the old lenses that people from the age of 45 on are discarding, so that they may be used by others who are not fortunate enough in this world's goods to procure proper ones.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Seven pamphlets by Dr. Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene," and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

You're Telling Me!

THE ART of fencing is reported enjoying a revival of popularity among American men. Maybe it's just a gesture of self-defense, now that the women have again taken to wearing hats.

Zadok Dumbkopf, who usually never takes a chance, is all excited about the new National Progressive party. He's even willing to bet even money that the new party in 1940 finishes no worse than third.

A local blue-blood who has always bemoaned the fact that we uncouth Americans failed to follow so many fine old English customs hasn't had much to say since the British boosted their income tax to 27½ percent.

Quebec traffic cops are ordered to smile when giving speeders a ticket. The motorist, however, is permitted to retain his frown.

Yawn Yawnson came into the office today and asked the news photo librarian if he had a rear view picture of the League of Nations. He wanted to see what was holding it up.

World At A Glance

With business in the United States still in the doldrums, according to a recent commerce department report March was the sixteenth consecutive month in which American exports exceeded those of the corresponding month in the previous year.

It is pretty hard not to give Secretary of State Cordell Hull's reciprocal tariff policy credit for this favorable foreign trade record.

Moreover, the overseas countries with which Secretary Hull has concluded tariff treaties on Uncle Sam's behalf are the ones which, since then, have proved to be Uncle Samuel's best customers. The others, with which we have not yet succeeded in closing bargains, have lagged.

WORKING?

In short, while the remainder of our government has tinkered vainly with ineffective medicine to relieve the depression, Secretary Hull's international cure-all seems to be working.

Yet, strange to say, high tariff-ites in congress are insisting that the executive branch of the government should be deprived of authority to negotiate these reciprocal bargains—on the ground that it amounts to treaty making, which constitutionally should be subject to legislative approval. Well, maybe so, technically speaking.

A "RELIGION"?

Still, the constitution has been considerably strained by various New Deal prescriptions, intended to improve conditions, but which have not permanently improved them.

Here is one which has done some good.

Why not take a chance with one which shows signs of being genuinely beneficial?

"But," former Senator Edward P. Costigan of Colorado (a one-time member of the United States tariff commission) once told me, "in reasoning with an ultraprotectionist you waste your effort. His complex isn't economic. It's a religion. He believes in it—regardless!"

HULL GETS RESULTS

To assert that Secretary of State Hull is an internationalist would be a misinterpretation.

But he is international in the sense of holding that no one people can be prosperous in the midst of an unprosperous world. I know this from many talks I have had with him as a representative, a senator and a cabinet member. And application of his system has given results—of the right kind, within the limits of his authority.

A RECORD

Hull came into executive office on his own platform. President Roosevelt did not support him very well, for awhile, but Hull stood pat, and now he has a first-class pass to point to.

The departments of the treasury, justice, the postoffice, the interior, commerce and labor are shot full of disorder. War and navy are nothing to write home about. Agriculture is in fair shape, nevertheless, not overly happy. Independent bureaus are in a terrible turmoil.

TRADE MARCHES UP!

And the recession still recesses—Henry Ford's visit to the White House and 16 business magnates' encouraging statement to the contrary notwithstanding.

The only bright spot on the horizon is Secretary Hull's foreign trade record.

March exports 5 percent above February's, 7 percent above March, 1937's, and so on backward! It is a record by Secretary Hull (and the only record) which has done something toward taking the curse off the American domestic recession.

REALISM

THE first requirement for judging public problems is a sense of reality. Too many of our disputants are living in a dream-world.

This observation applies to the extremists of both sides—conservatives and radicals. Both fail to look on this present-day world and recognize it for what it is.

Even many liberals, who profess to follow the middle path in public policies and social principles, are in a daze from books they have read and speeches they have listened to. Habitual talkers and public speakers become hypnotized by their own voices. The oftener they say a thing, the more they believe it, although it may never have existed except in their own imaginations.

The only way by which we can get anywhere, in this confused and baffling time, is to start freshly every morning, trying to see life as it is on that day—the business and political and social facts next door and in the next block and down town and around the state, around the country, around the world. Half of it, perhaps, can be got by direct contact with many people. The other half can be got from newspapers, radio, magazines and books.

All of the facts observed and heard are to be interpreted in terms of human nature, of people like ourselves trying to get along together and make a living and improve their lot in the hardest and most mixed-up era that any of us have ever seen.

Down with propaganda, down with prejudice! Why not suspend even cherished beliefs and take a fresh slant on things? Be objective and dispassionate—try to let your eye see and your judgment work as if these were other people's problems instead of yours. And always be human. Nothing else counts much.

RUSSIAN CELEBRATION

MAY 1 was, as usual, a big day in Moscow. A million workers paraded in the Red Square, saluted by Boss Stalin. There were notable features in the celebration.

One was the open contempt shown for England, which has been regarded as an informal ally of Russia against the Fascist countries. There were banners showing the British Lion with its tail tied to a cannon barrel representing the "Rome-Berlin axis." Russia is clearly annoyed by the new British friendship with Italy.

There was also a May Day manifesto from the Communist Internationale blaming Britain for the present plight of China, loyalist Spain, Austria and Czechoslovakia. There is an unpleasant amount of truth

Moreover, the overseas countries with which Secretary Hull has concluded tariff treaties on Uncle Sam's behalf are the ones which, since then, have proved to be Uncle Samuel's best customers. The others, with which we have not yet succeeded in closing bargains, have lagged.

WORKING?

In short, while the remainder of our government has tinkered vainly with ineffective medicine to relieve the depression, Secretary Hull's international cure-all seems to be working.

Yet, strange to say, high tariffites in congress are insisting that the executive branch of the government should be deprived of authority to negotiate these reciprocal bargains—on the ground that it amounts to treaty making, which constitutionally should be subject to legislative approval.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN.

FDR REJECTED RICHBERG PLAN

WASHINGTON — When the President started writing his monopoly message to Congress last week he had before him two important and diametrically opposite proposals.

One was a 10,000-word preliminary draft of a message by Solicitor General Bob Jackson, author of previous trust-busting speeches. The other was a long letter from Don Richberg, once NRA executive, now big-shot lawyer, which proposed the same monopoly controls supposed to exist under NRA, namely self-government of business.

Richberg expected to be called to the White House to help write the monopoly message, but the summons never came. Instead the President sent for Jackson and his chief, Attorney General Cummings, showed both of them the Richberg letter. Jackson read it and remarked drily: "The same old stuff."

Cummings differed. "Sounds very good to me," he said.

It doesn't to me," replied the President. "I think it is vague and unconvincing."

Cummings withdrew shortly afterward, leaving the President to work entirely with Jackson in whipping the monopoly message into final form.

MOMENTOUS DECISION

This conference was even more significant than appears on the surface. It represented a long period of hemming and hawing between the President and his advisers on both sides of the road, therefore, is interpreted by his inner council to mean that he will follow the road without deviation in the future.

Hitherto Roosevelt has played a policy which might be described as "Balancing Prejudices." He dealt out a hand in favor of his left-wing group, then turned around and tossed a few cards in the direction of the right-wingers.

It was a policy of aiming a "little left of center" but trying to keep both sides pacified.

Regarding his monopoly message, Roosevelt was torn between these two sides far more than anyone, except those on the inside, realized. The message was supposed to come out immediately after his return from Warm Springs, when Bob Jackson rode north on the train with him. But because of the vehement tug-of-war, it was delayed.

On one side were the "Go-Slowers"—Secretaries Hull, Wallace, Attorney General Cummings, RFChairman Jesse Jones, and Don Richberg.

On the other side were the "Hit-Harders"—Secretary Ickes, SEChairman Bill Douglas, Harry Hopkins, Bob Jackson, and Brain Trusters Henderson, Cohen and Corcoran.

in that. Britain's support of democracy lately is half-hearted. Yet it is hard to think of Stalin's Russia, with its dictatorship and treason trials and espionage, as a real friend of democracy.

Another feature was the military demonstration. A great display of modern bombing planes, big tanks by the hundred, and other fighting equipment, suggested that Russia is ready for any foe in spite of her internal troubles. It was a plain warning to Hitler not to start anything on the Russian front.

One More Wedding

GARRY suddenly felt his senses awakening. The unreal aspect vanished. He could not escape through the high and narrow barred windows. If he left, he would have to fight his way out and he did not have a gun. The police might, or might not, pick up the trail.

Maybe, with only two of the group left on guard—he could distinguish the rumble of two voices only—he could give them the bum's rush. Better to charge two than four. But maybe it would be wiser to see what news the others brought back.

The baby began to cry again. Apparently it had been doped these last few hours. Thank fortune, the infant was alive. The gang might keep their promise in this case.

He heard the car return, a long time later, then the jubilant sound of voices in the next room. The family had complied. The men had their money.

"What about the kid?" someone asked. "Going to return him now?"

"Not on your grandmother's tinfoil! They'll be waiting for us, three deep in those woods!" The ringleader was giving some unexpected information.

"And the newspaper guy?"

"Wait till we get his money. That is, if we don't have to beat it tonight. I brought Tom and Sawdust back. They're watching from the hideaway down the road. If anything dangerous comes up, they'll switch off the lights and we'll beat it in the dark."

"We'll kill the guy first?" another voice asked.

"Give him a shot or two if there's time," another man said hopefully.

The leader didn't approve. "Nix on that. They'd hear the shots. We'll take the guy along and dump him in the river. But, why not make him work instead of sitting in there, eating our food? I could do with a pot of coffee."

These men were pretty sure that his time was approaching, Garry knew, or they would not be willing to let him see them, face to face. He used to make coffee on hikes, back in college days, so he recollected the measurements and put the pot over the fire. The men had been drinking. Bottles stood around. They were not drunk, though. The baby was asleep now, in a corner of the room.

The men had the money. Now and then they began to count it. "Good many tens," one of them said. "Fives and ones would make a thicker package."

A sudden, tense silence seized the group. The men began to count steadily. Half way through the pile, they came to a note. The leader swore as he put it down. "They'll leave the last $20,000 when we leave the baby."

"Sure," a confederate put in. "Didn't I tell you guys they wouldn't trust us? They think we'll get the 50 grand and want some more. It's on the level, boys. They know we can kill the brat if the money isn't there. We'd better play ball with them."

Garry served the coffee, returned to his room, tried to read a book. Two of the men went away. He was left with the other two. He felt in his pockets, wondering if he had anything that might help him. Again the sense of unreality stole over him.

He laughed grimly at a small envelope in his unused trousers' watch pocket—overlooked when the men had searched him. A friend of his, a physician, had given him some sleeping powders when he had remarked once that he wasn't only to please the man. All this time they had reposed in Garry's tiny pocket. His mind began to function swiftly. There were half a dozen of them and one was enough to put a man to sleep after a reasonable time. Well, then, three should do some pretty fast work.

He came to the door of the room.

Now! Garry counted to 10, slowly, before he started to get the keys. The man moved and mumbled something, but did not waken. It was only a second's work to unlock the door. Then he seized the sleeping child and the blanket in which it was wrapped, switched off the light, and stepped out of the door. He began to run, cautiously, though. Any moment he might meet the men who were returning.

Every time a night bird called or an animal ran across the road he waited. He had been walking for a couple of hours when he sighted the river. The lights on the ferry station were out. He

No Need for Expensive Glasses

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

A WOMAN writes me to ask whether inexpensive glasses, costing about a dollar, will harm her and her husband's eyes. They are both about 48 years old. She says that she feels she cannot afford expensive glasses and bought these at a department store.

This is a very interesting and important question. It is unfortunate that the economic situation has to enter into it, but since it does I think a sensible reply is that in people whose eyes are becoming blurred on account of age, no harm will come from the use of the inexpensive glasses. The eye disability of old age is entirely different from that of younger people and does not necessarily need such careful examination and fitting.

Presbyopia, or hardening of the lens in middle age, results in inability to do close reading or close work of any kind. It is simply due to the fact that the lens of the eye no longer is elastic and cannot be made to focus on near objects. As time goes on, stronger and stronger glasses are needed, but there is no reason why these glasses need cost a great deal of money and, in fact, I am quite convinced that any glasses which allow a person in this condition to read and do close work, will do no harm. An indication of this is the fact that old people who have mislaid their glasses, often borrow those of others of about the same age and even after using them for an hour or two, do not have a headache or evidence of eye strain.

Expensive Frames Unnecessary

There is certainly no reason why expensive frames need be used for these glasses because they usually have to be discarded within a year or more, until the eyes finally get set at about the age of 55.

In view of the economic problem involved here, I really believe in every community some charitable person or organization should offer to collect the old spectacle frames and the old lenses that people from the age of 45 on are discarding, so that they may be used by others who are not fortunate enough in this world's goods to procure proper ones.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Seven pamphlets by Dr. Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding Instructions for the Treatment of Diarrhea," "Feminine Hygiene," and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

You're Telling Me!

THE ART of fencing is reported enjoying a revival of popularity among American men. Maybe it's just a gesture of self-defense, now that the women have again taken to wearing hat pins.

Zadok Dumbkopf, who usually never takes a chance, is all excited about the new National Progressive party. He's even willing to bet even money that the new party in 1940 finishes no worse than third.

A local blue-blood who has always bemoaned the fact that we uncouth Americans failed to follow so many fine old English customs hasn't had much to say since the British boosted their income tax to 27 1/2 percent.

Quebec traffic cops are ordered to smile when giving speeders a ticket. The motorist, however, is permitted to retain his frown.

FACE to FACE with $500

Suppose you were to obtain $500 in cash today, to use any way you pleased, so long as you spent it wisely and well. What would you do with the money? Here are a few of the things you could do with a loan:

First, you could make a clean sweep of all your debts... pay up every last troublesome bill and consolidate all your scattered monthly payments into one.

Then you could trade in your old car for a newer model at a real bargain price, by making up the difference with cash.

Or you could buy new spring clothes, attend sales, take advantage of opportunities, meet emergencies... accomplish any of the hundred and one plans you have been putting off for want of ready cash.

FLEXIBLE PAYMENTS

In order to prevent the piling up of payments which would work a hardship on the borrower, a full thirty-day period is allowed between payments, no matter when the last payment was made.

FOX GIVES SHOW TO DROP ODDS FOR BIG DERBY

Belair Stud's Entry Goes To Top Of List After Wednesday Workout

By HENRY M'LEMORE

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 5 — (UP)—He came, he was seen, and he conquered.

That's Fighting Fox, the strapping son of Galahad III and Marguerite, and the Belair Stud's solid hope in Saturday's 64th running of the Kentucky derby.

Yesterday this time he shared the post of favorite with Stagehand, the Sande trained colt whose smashing runs down the stretch won him $150,000 in California during the winter. But today, whenever horsemen studied the probable field of ten which will go to the post in the derby, they always wound up with one conclusion:

"The Fox is the one to beat."

Show Put On

For a bit of quiet, yet tingling drama, you need not go past the manner in which the Fox elevated himself to the post of favorite. It happened yesterday, between the third and fourth races on the card at Churchill Downs. The track was deserted, and the some 15,000 fans, their bets on the third collected, and their bets on the fourth made, were sitting quietly in the stands, or loitering at the bars.

Then, with no fanfare, no announcement, a horse and his jockey jogged slowly along the backstretch. No one paid any attention to them, because between nearly every race some stable boy gallops a horse around the track.

The boy and the horse took it easy and ambled into the far turn; no one gave them more than a passing glance.

Then the boy must have said something, for in one great bound the horse was transferred from a loafing, easy-striding animal into a Pegasus who seemed to fairly fly. No, Pegasus isn't quite right, because he didn't seem as if he had wings; he gave you the impression of tremendous power, endless vitality, and the will to run over anything in front of him.

The horse was Fighting Fox, with his man, Jimmy Stout, up. The Fox hadn't run fifty yards before every eye in the place was on him. Men laid down their juleps and rushed to a place where they could see. In the press box, typewriters and waiters crowded to the windows.

And the Fox gave 'em a show. The Fox's great showing hampered his odds down to 2½ to 1 and made him the favorite. Next in line, at 3 to 1, was the Maxwell Howard entry of Stagehand and The Chief. Bull Lea was 5 to 1, and Menow and Dauber 8 to 1.

Lawrin was held at 10 to 1, Can't Wait at 15 to 1, Co-Sport at 25 to 1, and Elotot at 30 to 1.

Louisville is rapidly becoming a municipal madhouse.

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng., May 5—(UP)—Max Schmeling has no idea of retiring if he should regain the world heavyweight title from Joe Louis in their June 22 bout.

Reds Convinced Giants Strong With King Carl

CINCINNATI, May 5—(UP)—The Cincinnati Reds today were convinced the league leading New York Giants can't go far wrong as long as willowy Carl Hubbell remains the ace of the pitching staff. Hubbell, one of the greatest southpaw hurlers in baseball history and the star of the New York staff since he joined the club in 1928, turned in another brilliant exhibition here yesterday as the charges of Billy Terry downed the Reds 3 to 2 to even the series.

The victory was Hubbell's third straight of the season and in none of those contests have the Giants furnished him with more than three runs.

Hubbell was off to a shaky start when the Reds scored in the first inning on a single by Lew Rigs, a walk to Lombardi, a passed ball and Frank McCormick's ringing single and then added another in the second as Billy Myers homered over the left field wall.

After Meyers' circuit smash, Hubbell settled down and was invincible the remainder of the way. He gave the Reds a total of only seven scattered hits. Rookie Harry Craft was the only Cincinnati player able to garner two safeties.

Peaches in Box

Ray (Peaches) Davis was in the box for the Reds and pitched fine ball, but his performance couldn't match that of Hubbell.

For four innings Davis was a complete puzzle to the Giants, but

DOCTOR CLAIMS REST WILL CURE DIZ DEAN'S ARM

CHICAGO, May 5—(UP)—An X-ray solved the mystery of Dizzy Dean's ailing arm. The question now is, "Will a month's rest cure him?"

Dizzy's trouble, the Chicago Cub physician said, was caused by a muscle inflammation near the right shoulder resulting from the same old injury that wrecked him last season. He rested all Winter but it didn't help.

Dean, onetime prima donna of the St. Louis Cardinals, tried his best to minimize the sore arm and might have taken a regular, disappointing turn in the pitchers' box all season if Manager Charlie Grimm hadn't stepped in.

For four innings Davis was a complete puzzle to the Giants, but in the fifth they began to get to him and only two brilliant defensive plays prevented the New Yorkers from scoring. In the fifth the men of Terry had two runners thrown out at home because of fast fielding and deadly throws by Linus Frey after taking a relay from "Dusty" Cooke, and Ival Goodman.

New York pushed across its first run in the sixth when Myers made a two base fumble of Dick Bartell's pop fly into short left, a single by Jimmy Rippie and Mel Ott's long fly.

The tying counter was made in the seventh on Danning's single, Hubbell's sacrifice and a single by Joe Moore. The winning run came in the eighth when Rippie made his fourth hit, moved to third on a sacrifice and a balk and scored when John McCarthy lined out a single.

The loss dropped the Reds back into fifth place.

The clubs were to meet here again today with Gene Schott slated to oppose Harry Gumbert.

DOCTOR CLAIMS REST WILL CURE DIZ DEAN'S ARM

CHICAGO, May 5—(UP)—An X-ray solved the mystery of Dizzy Dean's ailing arm. The question now is, "Will a month's rest cure him?"

Dizzy's trouble, the Chicago Cub physician said, was caused by a muscle inflammation near the right shoulder resulting from the same old injury that wrecked him last season. He rested all Winter but it didn't help.

Dean, onetime prima donna of the St. Louis Cardinals, tried his best to minimize the sore arm and might have taken a regular, disappointing turn in the pitchers' box all season if Manager Charlie Grimm hadn't stepped in.

"Diz, you've got a sore arm," Grimm told him after a morning workout at Wrigley field yesterday. "You go see Doc Davis."

Dr. John F. Davis, club physician, placed Dean's $270,000 arm under an X-ray and proved that the big right hander was unsound when the Cubs bought him last month. It was called the second largest cash deal in baseball history. Owner Phil K. Wrigley said he paid $185,000 in cash in addition to three players.

"Those pictures showed traces of a former case of bursitis (which cost Diz a month of service last year) and that's what caused his present condition," Davis said. "He has an inflammatory condition of the deltoid muscle, but it's nothing permanent. Trouble there is one of the easiest things to cure."

THERE IS one kind of birthday present which the non-bridge player never can enjoy. That is the thrill which comes when you are about to raise your partner's bid but are interrupted by an optimistic opponent doubling him. If you know that the opponents have some kind of "out," do not redouble and scare them into a contract which is bad for your side. Merely accept your gift quietly and pass.

A clipping of this deal is due to be sent to a certain artist named McClelland Barclay, who celebrates his birthday on this very date, May 9. He is the only one of the three Barclay brothers who does not play bridge at all and until he does take up the game will not know the kind of pleasant surprise received by the holder of the North cards.

West had opened with one of those short suit club bids, and the North call was 1-Diamond. East bid 1-No Trump and South 2-Spades. Just as North was wondering whether it might become advisable to raise that suit with only three cards, including two nice honors, West doubled! Was North tempted to redouble, when the king seemed neatly placed in the jaws of his tenace? He was, but decided to accept the gift offered lest he might get no gift at all. So it was played at two spades doubled, producing a game plus an overtrick.

Some people think that actors are an irresponsible lot and that they have no business ability whatever.

The other day an actor went to his girl's father and asked him for his daughter's hand. The father said "How do I know you can support my daughter—what kind of an income will you have to depend on?" The actor says $5,100.00.

The father says "Well, that oughta be enough—I give my daughter $5,000.00 a year allowance."

The actor says "Yes sir, I know—I counted that."

Stooge Club Does Much Work for High School

The fourth annual Stooge Club dance, looked forward to by students and townspeople alike, will be staged Friday evening in Memorial Hall with Larry Stember's orchestra furnishing music.

Since the club was organized in 1935 it has sponsored and financed several projects which have proved of much benefit to the school and to the city.

Some of the outstanding projects of the first year included a donkey ball game, development of organized cheering, buses to basketball games. In 1936, the club purchased a set of football bleachers and gave $50 to the High School Athletic association. The Stooges again sent buses to basketball games and promoted the sale of Red and Black flags to help increase attendance at athletic functions. Highlights of the 1937 program included a father and son cheering section, sponsorship of a Dad's Day football game, issuing programs at basketball games, and erection of a Christmas tree during the holiday season.

As the 1938 term began the club completed its work on the football field by helping erect a fence, several new sets of bleachers and the field light. The club sponsored the sale of booster tickets for the benefit of the light committee. New projects for the year included a booth during Pumpkin Show, grading, seeding, and cultivating the gridiron and the laying

PENALTY REFUND LAW RULED OUT BY STATE COURT

COLUMBUS, May 5—(UP)—The Ohio supreme court today had declared unconstitutional the so-called Ogrin tax penalty refund law.

The decision saved Ohio counties several millions of dollars which they otherwise might have been forced to refund to property taxpayers.

The high court declared "that this statute is patently repugnant to the equal protection clauses of the . . . constitution of Ohio . . . and of the United States"

The law, enacted by the last regular legislative session, provided for refunding to taxpayers any penalties or interest collected for tax delinquency between June, 1930, and Jan. 1, 1937.

W. A. Crotty, Cleveland taxpayer, attacked the statute when he sought to enjoin Cuyahoga County Auditor John A. Zangerle from paying refunds according to the act. Common Pleas court declared the law invalid but the court of appeals reversed the ruling.

The supreme court yesterday upheld the common pleas decision and reversed the appellate court.

Very often we have a pain in the region of the stomach and believe we have stomach trouble when it is liver trouble caused from failure of the bile to flow. Then your food does not digest and backs up into the stomach causing belching, acid rising and vomiting. It is a fact that the actual cause behind these various troubles is in many instances sluggishness of the liver or gall bladder. This condition, if allowed to go untreated, too frequently leads to gallstones and often costly and dangerous operations with attendant pain and suffering.

Ton Jon No. 2 is a POWERFUL Liver Medicine with a DOUBLE QUICK ACTION on the bowels.

KIDNEYS

This treatment aids nature by flushing out the impurities, giving complete relief from bladder irritation and weakness, dull and sharp pains in the back, stiffness in back and lower limbs, frequent getting up during the night, dizziness, spots before the eyes, swelling of the feet and lower limbs, puffed or dark circles beneath the eyes.

Ton Jon No. 3 is Nature's favorite means of correcting: NEPHRITIS—Inflammation of the kidneys. CYSTITIS—Inflammation of the bladder. URETHRITIS—Inflammation of the Urethra.

PROSTATITIS—Inflammation of the Prostate gland, the organ surrounding the neck of the bladder.

One of the two main reasons for high blood pressure is kidney trouble. Ton Jon No. 3 will make your kidneys function properly like a laxative does your bowels.

HOW THEY WILL ACT

been forced to refund to property taxpayers.

The high court declared "that this statute is patently repugnant to the equal protection clauses of the constitution of Ohio . . . and of the United States."

The law, enacted by the last regular legislative session, provided for refunding to taxpayers any penalties or interest collected for tax delinquency between June, 1930, and Jan. 1, 1937.

W. A. Crotty, Cleveland taxpayer, attacked the statute when he sought to enjoin Cuyahoga County Auditor John A. Zangerle from paying refunds according to the act. Common Pleas court declared the law invalid but the court of appeals reversed the ruling.

The supreme court yesterday upheld the common pleas decision and reversed the appellate court.

We Have a Free Bottle of TON JON for You

Hamilton and Ryan drug store here in Circleville, Ohio is introducing for the first time in Pickaway county three herbal medicines which have created a sensation in Washington Courthouse, Ohio where we have sold thousands of bottles in the short time of 9 months helping people who have never been helped before by any medicine.

We know that Ton Jon has helped 95% of the people who have tried it.

We give this trial size to you to start you on the road to health.

What Is It?

Ton Jon is not a CURE ALL, not a patent medicine, no mere powder, pill or salts, syrup or capsule, and it does not contain alcohol or a SINGLE habit forming drug to deaden pain, but it is a new scientific liquid mixture of medical plants blended with other medicinal ingredients and contains perhaps more ingredients than ten ordinary medicines. It is the TALK OF THE PEOPLE in every community. Often people are mistaken in their ailments, therefore Ton Jon. Ton Jon will cleanse and invigorate your four main organs — Stomach, Liver, Kidneys and Bowels.

WHAT IT WILL DO.

STOMACH

Ton Jon No. 1 will aid nature in throwing off poisons that foster stomach trouble, bringing complete relief from indigestion, gas, bloating, feeling like a rock in the stomach, dyspepsia, pain in chest and stomach, wild heart palpitation, awful headaches, loss of weight and strength, sour stomach, cramps, spitting up bits of food and sour liquids, acid rising and belching. It will give you an appetite like you never had before in your life.

BOWELS

Ton Jon No. 1 will cleanse your bowels (not drastic or severe) as they were never cleansed before, producing proper elimination, giving them a daily natural action, thus cleansing and toning your blood, and giving the NERVES A NEW TINGLE. It will remove the poisons that cause skin eruptions, bloated feeling, headaches, coated tongue, foul breath, sleeplessness and all gone, tired feeling, and thus overcome constipation.

LIVER

Ton Jon No. 2 will wake up that lazy liver, frequently clearing out impurities that may have contaminated your BLOOD AND INNER ORGANS for a long time, and bring relief from sick headaches that may last for days, attacks of biliousness, constipation, dizzy spells, lazy spells, drowsy, tired feeling, relieving such embarrassing conditions as foul breath, unsightly complexion, sallowness or muddiness, and will in place give you a GLOWING COMPLEXION, one which the highest priced cosmetic cannot equal. Very often we have a pain in the region of the stomach and believe we have stomach trouble when it is liver trouble caused from failure of the bile to flow. Then your food does not digest and backs up into the stomach causing belching, acid rising and vomiting. It is a fact that the actual cause behind these various troubles is in many instances sluggishness of the liver or gall bladder. This condition, if allowed to go untreated, too frequently leads to gallstones and often costly and dangerous operations with attendant pain and suffering.

KIDNEYS

This treatment aids nature by flushing out the impurities, giving complete relief from bladder irritation and weakness, dull and sharp pains in the back, stiffness in back and lower limbs, frequent getting up during the night, dizziness, spots before the eyes, swelling of the feet and lower limbs, puffed or dark circles beneath the eyes.

TON JON ENDS YEARS OF SUFFERING FOR MANY.

PROSTATITIS — Inflammation of the Prostate gland, the organ surrounding the neck of the bladder. REMOVING Stones and gravel from the kidneys and bladder. Medical science states that a soothing diuretic is the best known treatment for the prostate gland, also the safest. One of the two main reasons for high blood pressure is kidney trouble. Ton Jon No. 3 will make your kidneys function properly like a laxative does your bowels.

HOW THEY WILL ACT

Ton Jon gets at the seat of common afflictions by aiding nature in throwing off poisons that foster stomach trouble; works off old bile from the torpid liver, flushes out weak, disordered kidneys, gives proper regular action of the bowels, thereby aiding digestion and elimination of toxic poisons, thus your blood stream will become pure, your nervousness will disappear and you will feel full of pep. LIKE YOU NEVER FELT BEFORE IN YOUR LIFE. So, if you are run down or any of the common ailments named above are ruining your life, it would certainly be a mistake not to get Ton Jon and take it.
